RESEARCH EXPERIENCE

September 2017 – present

Juvenile Justice and Reform Lab, Drexel University

Supervisor: Naomi Goldstein, Ph.D., Philadelphia, PA

Dissertation: Impact of Risk Assessment Information on Juvenile Court Staff's Decisions about Residential Placement and Restrictive Sanctions

- Design and conduct an experimental, vignette-based study ( $N = 465$ ) on American judges, magistrates, court officers, and probation officers to assess the use and impact of risk assessment information in sanction decisions
- Proposal: September 2020; Expected defense: April 2022
- Committee Members: Naomi Goldstein (chair), PhD, Denise Cubbon, JD, Kirk Heilbrun, PhD, Mark Soler, JD, Zoe Zhang, PhD

Master's Thesis: Impact of Race, Age, and Crime Type on Public Impressions of Juvenile Transfer and Sentencing of Female Defendants

- Designed and conducted an experimental, vignette-based study on voting-eligible Americans ( $N = 1471$ ) to evaluate how demographic and legal characteristics of a female youth affected the public's beliefs about the use of juvenile transfer and their sentencing recommendations
- Proposal: December 2018; Defense: May 2020
- Committee Members: Naomi Goldstein (chair), PhD, Oren Gur, PhD, David DeMatteo, JD/PhD

Co-Director of Graduated Response in Juvenile Probation Initiatives, Stoneleigh Foundation

- Co-lead development of juvenile probation reform initiatives in Pennsylvania by translating empirical findings on adolescent development and effective behavior change strategies into probation policy and practice
- Draft case management materials for the Philadelphia Juvenile Probation Department to use in its Graduated Response system that involves structured use of incentives and interventions to promote positive behavior and modify misbehavior in youth under supervision
- Assist in preparation of materials for a Philadelphia policy committee on juvenile probation reform and for trainings on Graduated Response and adolescent development with juvenile probation officers local to Philadelphia and around Pennsylvania
- Evaluate pilot Graduated Response system using Philadelphia County probation data

Graduate Research Assistant, Judicial Confinement and Release Decisions: Protecting Youth and Communities During the Pandemic and Beyond, W.T. Grant & Spencer Foundations Rapid Response Research (R3) Grant ($94,594)

- Conduct systematic literature review on risk assessment literature focused on violent offending in order to propose potential national approach for judges to consider on identifying risk, describing risk-related needs, and determining conditions of potential release and community-based monitoring during the COVID-19 pandemic
- Help prepare outreach materials (e.g., judicial bench cards) for juvenile court judges to use in making decisions about releasing youth from detention and out-of-home placement

Program Coordinator, Developing a Prison-to-School Pipeline Research and Practice Model, Spencer Foundation Conference Support Grant ($49,583)

- Develop, implement, and analyze pre-conference survey for attendees on areas of need for kids returning to school after residential placement or detention
- Create theoretical model of the process through which youth previously placed in residential or detention facilities can successfully reintegrate into school (academically and psychosocially)
- Develop content for 12-session conference in which attendees brainstorm and edit a theoretical model through activities and group-based work
- Provide general administrative support for the event

Evaluator, Philadelphia Workgroup of the Disproportionate Minority Contact (DMC) Subcommittee of the Pennsylvania Commission on Crime and Delinquency

- Administer pre- and post-training surveys to youth and police recruits/officers participating in the DMC Youth/Law Enforcement Curriculum workshops
- Assist in preparation of reports to evaluate changes in attitudes and beliefs of police recruits and young people for stakeholders
- Prepare programming recommendations based on data analyses of trainings held across PA

2017 – 2019

Research Assistant Supervisor

- Co-supervised undergraduate research assistants in completion of lab projects including data entry and analysis, report completion, and literature searches
- Led weekly progress meeting and delegate assignments and responsibilities
- Facilitated communication between supervisor, graduate students, and research assistants

2019 – 2020

Department of Hospital Medicine, Inpatient Psychiatric Unit, Cooper University Hospital

Research Assistant

Supervisor: Anastasia Bullock, PsyD, Camden, NJ

- Assisted with designing aims and materials for a pilot study to ascertain the utility of novel Behavioral Medicine psychological services (individual therapy, group therapy) on a voluntary inpatient psychiatric unit
- Prepared IRB paperwork for initial submission
- Recruited, consented, and collected data from patients
- Entered and managed data

2015 – 2017

Brain Injury Research Center, Icahn School of Medicine at Mount Sinai, Clinical Research

Coordinator

Supervisor: Kristen Dams-O'Connor, Ph.D., New York, NY

- Coordinated several research projects including a multi-site (U01) neuropsychological and imaging study examining moderate to severe traumatic brain injury (TBI) in adults involving brain donation at the end of life (PIs: Kristen Dams-O'Connor, PhD and Wayne Gordon, PhD) and a study investigating health and cognitive outcomes in an aging TBI population (PI: Kristen Dams-O'Connor, PhD)
- Research responsibilities included:
  - Brainstorming and employing recruitment efforts
  - Administering clinical research assessments
  - Scheduling and organize research procedures
  - Coordinating the collection of brain tissue samples
  - Entering and managing data
  - Preparing reports for the IRB, CDC, and NIH
- Additional responsibilities included:
  - Assisting with grant preparation
  - Recruiting, training, and providing support for new employees and volunteers
  - Researching, writing, and preparing posters and manuscripts

2014 – 2015

Eating Disorders Research Unit, Columbia University Medical Center/New York State Psychiatric Institute, Research Assistant, New York, NY

Supervisors: Michael Devlin, MD, Laurel Mayer, MD, & Robyn Sysko, PhD

- Coordinated all aspects of multiple clinical research projects including a genetic and psychological study examining the relationship between the FTO gene, food choice, impulsivity, and brain functioning (PI: Laurel Mayer, MD), a project assessing psychological issues and post-operative problems among adolescents receiving bariatric surgery (PI: Robyn Sysko, PhD), and a multi-site study that examines possible psychosocial issues among adult bariatric surgery patients in a longitudinal study through seven years including Axis I diagnoses, eating disordered behavior, and post-operative issues (PI: Michael J. Devlin, MD)
- Research responsibilities included:
  - Implementing outreach and recruitment strategies
  - Conducting research procedures, meal studies, semi-structured interviews, and neuropsychological assessments
  - Collecting and entering data
  - Preparing reports for the IRB, NIDDK, and NIH
- Other responsibilities included:
  - Contributing to clinic-wide blog, thefeedblog.com
  - Aiding in the presentation and publication of research findings through posters and scientific papers
  - Training and mentoring new employees and volunteers

2012 – 2013

Wesleyan University, Psychosocial Intervention Lab, Research Assistant, Middletown, CT

- Moderated focus groups on Binge Eating Disorder (BED) and its potential treatments
- Assisted Professor of Psychology, Ruth (Striegel) Wasserman, Ph.D., to build pilot study on interventions for college students with BED

- Conducted literature reviews on recent articles about eating disorders

2012 – 2013
